C. P. S. ABANDONED

COURSES TO BE GIVEN IN COLUMBIAN COLLEGE

Measure Deemed Necessary by University Authorities

THE President of the George Washington University is authorized by the Board of Trustees of the University to make the following announcements:

1. At the close of the present academic year (1912-13) the College of the Political Sciences will be merged into Columbian College.

2. That the instruction now offered in the College of the Political Sciences will be offered in Columbian College, so far as the finances of the University will permit.

3. That those officers of instruction whose services must be dispensed with are released because the University is under the necessity of merging the two colleges, not because of failure on their part.

This change has been deemed necessary for purposes of better organization. Under present conditions there have been courses in the two colleges which have been practically parallel. It has been possible for students to graduate from each of the colleges, having taken the same kind of work.

The purpose of the University is to continue the courses which are at present peculiar to the College of the Political Sciences under the curriculum of Columbian College, and thus to obtain better correlation of subjects. It is not in any way the intent of the University to abolish any of the courses.

The courses which hitherto have been under the College of the Political Sciences are: Political Science, History, Economics, Sociology, International Law and Diplomacy.

This change will undoubtedly prove of benefit to the University. It has hitherto been the case that a great many students registered in Columbian College took work in the Political Sciences, and vice versa. This involved a manifest duplication of work.

The College of the Political Sciences was organized as a separate college of the University in February, 1907. It was the outgrowth of a few post-graduate courses in international law and diplomacy, which had revealed the necessity for a fuller curriculum, more broadly cultural, and more highly specialized and practical. It has prospered exceedingly well, and its graduates have been peculiarly successful in the branches of work for which they were there prepared.

The College has had an excellent corps of instructors. Its first dean was Dr. Howard L. McBain, an

VARSITY TEAM LOSES

Basket Ball Season Nearing End

LAST week the basket ball team journeyed down into Virginia for games with Washington and Lee and Virginia Military Institute.

On Wednesday, February 12th, they met the strong quint from Washington and Lee, and were overwhelmingly defeated by the score of 59 to 11. We say overwhelmingly without reluctance, for Washington and Lee undoubtedly has one of the strongest basket ball teams which has been seen in this section of the country for a long time and one which will undoubtedly earn the title of South Atlantic Champion. It is a fast and brilliant aggregation, and the height of their men aid them materially in shooting goals. Miles was their star performer. A real test of their ability will come this week when they play Yale, and we do not hesitate to say that they will put up an exceptionally strong game.

A noticeable fact in the two games played this week was that in each case George Washington shot the first goal. In the Washington and Lee game Regis played the best game for us, while Kuehn made the feature play of the game when he made a brilliant shot from the center of the floor. The line-up in each of the games was as follows:

Kuehn—Forward.
Noonan—Forward.
Gore—Center.
McNally—Guard.
Regis—Guard.

V. M. I., 25; G. W. U., 12.

The game between George Washington and Virginia Military Institute was an exceptionally fast and well played game. George Washington put up a good game, and but for that fact that they were unfamiliar with the floor, would very likely have been returned winner. For George Washington, Regis and McNally put up the best showing in this game, although the play for the whole team was excellent.

GAMES NEXT WEEK.

On Wednesday George Washington plays Gallaudet at Kendall Green. While Gallaudet beat us in the last game, this is very unlikely to occur again. At that time the team was very unfamiliar with the floor, and even under these circum-

COURSES CHANGED

Teacher's College Extends

SEVERAL changes have been made in the list of requirements for graduation from Teachers College. The list of required subjects now reads as follows:

(a) In general culture subjects:
*Biology 3 hrs.
English 3 hrs.
*Foreign Language 6 hrs.
*History 6 hrs.
Psychology and Logic... 3 hrs.
Philosophy 3 hrs.

For subjects marked with an asterisk (*) electives may be substituted to the extent that approved secondary work has been done in these subjects. The Foreign Language requirement must fall in one language, while in history it is required that a survey of the world's history be obtained, and, to the extent that this survey has not been obtained before entering college, will college work in history be required.

(b) In professional subjects ten hours are required, of which the following seven are prescribed, although teachers of experience may substitute an elective in Education, counting two hours for Observation and Practice Teaching.

These new requirements were recommended by Dean Ruediger and have been acted upon in faculty meeting. By comparing them with those on page 81 of the General Catalogue, it will be seen that a number of changes have been made. These changes are all in accordance with the most modern ideas of education and they work another step in the progress of Teachers College.

Other changes, such as the formation of forenoon classes for the convenience of full time students, as well as late afternoon classes which are planned for those engaged in teaching, are in contemplation for next year. This will no doubt make it possible for more regular college students to take advantage of the educational courses, whether they are enrolled in Teachers College or not.

This year a new department was added to the college and Miss Marietta Stockard was engaged as "Lecturer on Story Telling and the Teaching of Children's Literature." The course has proved popular and will be valuable to those contemplating kindergarten or primary grade work.

BIG MEET TOMORROW

GAMES TO BE AMONG BEST IN HISTORY OF G. W. U.

G. W. U. vs. C. U. in Relay. Kiviat and Shepherd to Run

THE plans for the George Washington Indoor Games tomorrow are maturing very satisfactory, and from all present indications Manager Sllarrow will put on one of the best meets which have ever been run under the colors of the Buff and Blue. The management has been working hard, and desirable entries are coming in thick and fast. The drawing end of the meet is finished; it only remains for the student-body to turn out to make the meet a great success.

In an effort to secure added attractions in the persons of some Olympic stars, Manager Sllarrow last week made a special trip to New York for that purpose. His efforts met with success.

Abel R. Kiviat of the Irish-American Athletic Association has entered for the 1000-yard and the one-mile handicap, and Mel Shepherd, of the same club, has also entered. This will be a great boost for the meet. These two stars, both of whom have represented the United States in the Olympic games, will be matched at handicap with men whom Sllarrow has yet to select from the many entries in the 1000-yard and one-mile events.

A look at these two famous stars is a chance which does not often come to Washingtonians, and it is not lightly to be missed. It will probably result in a large turn-out outside of the students of the University.

Another of the chief features of the meet will be the relay race between George Washington and Catholic University. Since relations with Georgetown appear to be broken off permanently, we hope to establish a friendly rivalry with Catholic University, and it is understood that the latter institution has the same sentiment. The relay race tomorrow night should go a long way to help that. This event is the first to decide the right to a cup which the alumni associations of the two institutions have put up for the teams to compete for. It will be necessary to win a mile relay three times to become permanent holder of the cup. From the fast time which they made in the Johns Hopkins meet, it would appear that we have an excellent chance to win this race.

One great center of interest in the meet will be Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington Baseball Club, who has kindly accepted the invitation of Manager Sllarrow to act as referee. Manager Griffith has endeared himself to the Washington public, not only for his success along baseball lines, but for his engaging manners when outside of the limelight. We are delighted to have an opportunity to act as his host.

Besides the relay team, George Washington will have among their chief entries Captain Hamlin in the 220-yard, Will Maxson in the 440-yard, and Diener, conceded to be one of the best pole vaulters in this section of the country, in the pole-vault.

Among the larger colleges which will enter, Virginia will take a prominent part. Manager Slarrow had a personal conference with Manager Churchman of Virginia on last Saturday, with very satisfactory results. Virginia has already entered seventeen men for a total of thirty-three events, and will in all probability enter both one-mile and two-mile relays. Negotiations are now on for a relay race between Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Organizations which thus far have entered the individual events are the George Washington University, University of Virginia, Catholic University, Johns Hopkins University, Richmond College, Irish-American A. A., Baltimore Cross Country Club, Eastern, Western and Central High schools, Atlas A. C., Yankee A. C., Washington A. C., Episcopal High School, Twining A. C., Gas and Electric A. A. of Baltimore, St. Andrew School, Baltimore Polytechnic Institute, Briarly Hall Military Academy, Woodberry Forest School, Theological Seminary of Virginia, Marsden Academy, Fourth Presbyterian Church A. C., Richmond Academy, Y. M. C. A.

As indicative of future relations between Catholic University and George Washington, the former institution has a large number of entries in the meet. The entry of Woodberry Forest School will also be of interest to Washingtonians, as being one of the institutions with which President-elect Woodrow Wilson was connected. There will, in addition to the above mentioned entries, be also an interesting number of relays.

Contests in the George Washington meet will decide the South Atlantic championships in the 440-yard, 50-yard hurdles, and the two-mile.

It is earnestly hoped that the students of the University will appreciate the hard work of the management for the success of the meet by turning out a strong representation. The people of Washington are sure to turn out because of the great number of especial attractions which are being offered. If the meet is a financial success, it will help very materially in paying off the athletic debts of the University. In addition to mercenary motives, we hope that there will be a strong rooting delegation there. This encouragement will help our men wonderfully, and we certainly want to pull down that relay with Catholic University to even up for that licking we had to swallow in basket ball.

Suffragettes Hold Meeting

GEORGE Washington students learned all about the woman suffrage movement Monday before last. Their interest in the new movement led them to sit through a long chapel service and stay the whole of the lunch period in order to hear all that is to be said on this absorbing topic. A fair-sized masculine contingent testified their interest not only by their unaccustomed presence in chapel but by the questions they put to the speaker at the conclusion of her remarks.

Miss Gerschank occupied the chair and introduced the speaker, Mrs. Beard, who had been sent from headquarters at the request of the fair suffragettes of George Washington. The speaker told in a very inviting way the history and purposes of the woman's movement. It is a mothers' movement, she said, for the welfare of the children, big and little, for all the children of every mother. It is a new conception of motherhood that extends a mother's interest to include not only her own children, but all the children. Better laws on the subjects that affect motherhood and childhood are the objects of its efforts, laws on sanitary home and working conditions, marriage and divorce, pure food, protection of old age. To secure these aims, the speaker said, women needed the vote; their influence was not enough. Suffrage, she said, was not a new theory, it is in practical operation in four states. What the movement had chiefly to contend with was conservative prejudice.

Masculine conservatism found expression in a number of questions which the speaker answered brightly and wittily.

Dramatic Club Organized—Officers Elected

THERE was a general rally of students of all departments of the University in the chapel, 2023 G Street, last week at which plans were laid for the permanent organization of a Dramatic Club and at which officers were elected for the ensuing year.

Judging from the number present of both sexes, and the enthusiastic discussion of various plans and plays, dramatics are now on a sound footing in the University. Various coaches were discussed and it was practically decided to give a comedy, preferably farce-comedy.

At the next meeting of the club a constitution will probably be adopted and plays submitted for approval.

It is the intention to give everyone a part of some kind. After the play has been decided upon there will be selected as many casts as possible from the members of the club, enabling all to show what they can do. Each cast will then give their version of the production before the whole club, after which the principals for the final production will be selected.

Irwin Harsch was elected President; Mathilde Eiker, Vice President; — Golbraith, Secretary; and S. M. Barrett, Treasurer.

All students of the University are invited to attend the future meetings, Thursdays, in the chapel at 7.30.

stances the game was very close, and was only decided in the last few minutes of play. We should clean them up easily on Wednesday.

On Friday we journey to Baltimore to meet the quint of the Baltimore City College. While it is difficult to compare the two teams from the dope at hand, it would seem that we stand at least an even chance to come away with a victory.

On Saturday we meet Loyola. This institution has a very strong aggregation, and the chances seem to favor a victory for them in this contest. However, we shall give them a good run for their money, and when they finish they will at least know that they have been in a good game of basket ball.

Together with the Virginia game, this makes a strenuous week for the wearers of the Buff and Blue. Thanks to Coach Schlosser, however, the men have been putting up a very good game, and they ought to come through the tussel with a good record.

VIRGINIA, 37; G. W. U., 15.

On Tuesday, February 18th, George Washington met Virginia at the Arcade. The game was all Virginia's in the first half, but the boys warmed up in the second and held things fairly even. The game was characterized by a large number of fouls, and the shooting was just about even. Virginia had it on us, however, in goals from the field. Noonan did some pretty work in the free shots. The score at the end of the first half was 22 to 6.

A large number of new faces were seen in the substitutions. Of these, Murray put up the best game.

The line-up was as follows:

Regis—Guard.
McNally, Fowler—Guard.
Nash, Applebaun—Guard.
Gore—Center.
Noonan—Forward.
Kuehn, Murray—Forward.

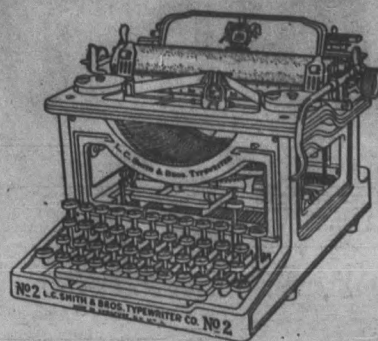

Virginia put up a much better game than was expected from its recent encounters. Rixey shot the free goals well.

PROMPT AND CORRECT SERVICE

FRATERNITY NOTES

THE Inter-Fraternity Association has about completed arrangements for the Inter-Fraternity dance, which will come the latter part of March, probably the 24th. It will be given in the Red Room at the Willard. The number of couples to be present will be limited at one hundred, and from canvasses made among the fraternities, the number of applications will probably be larger.

The Sigma Kappa sorority was entertained on Tuesday, February 4th, at a five-hundred party by the Misses Gatchell, of 1736 Park Road. The house was tastefully decorated with palms, ferns and southern moss. At the conclusion of the playing a course supper was served. A number of student friends were the guests of the sorority.

Miss Olive Taylor won the first prize for ladies, while the second went to Mrs. J. W. Stephenson, Mr. Walter Kerwin won the prize for the gentlemen, while the consolation went to Miss Ethel Lufrio.

February 20th the Thedelchians gave a masquerade ball at Chevy Chase which proved to be one of the merriest affairs of the season. The majority of the active charge of Theta Delta Chi were present.

Chi Omega announces a new pledge, Miss Julia Albes, of Alabama. Miss Albes entered Columbian College in February.

Miss Grace A. Waring, a graduate from Central High School in the February class, has registered for work in Columbian College.

Sigma Phi Epsilon announces a new pledge, P. M. Cook, president of the Junior Veterinary Class.

Sigma Phi Epsilon entertained a large number of friends at a smoker given at the chapel house, Saturday, February 8th. The principal speaker of the evening was Dean Wilbur. Mr. William Radford, of the British Embassy, also read many selections, both grave and gay.

The fraternities are requested to send to R. Schoenfeld, care the Cherry Tree, the names of their freshmen members.

Sigma Chi Fraternity gave a dance at the Fraternity house, Friday evening, February 7th.

Sigma Chi Fraternity gave a smoker Saturday evening, February 8th. Music and vocal numbers by the Sigma Chi quartet, and plenty of good things to refresh the inner man added to the enjoyment of the evening.

On Saturday, February 15th, the seven men taken into Sigma Chi Fraternity this Fall, will give a dance to the Fraternity at the Fraternity house.

The Architectural Club of the George Washington University gave its first dance in the Assembly Hall of the College, Friday evening, February 7th. Practically the entire club turned out and the dance was a great success in every way.

Columbian Society Selects Team

THE Panama Toll question, the complexities of which are now puzzling the nation, will be the subject for the next Columbian-Needham Inter-society debate. The Columbian Society was given the privilege of submitting the subject for the second debate and at a recent meeting it was decided to send to the Needham Society for the choice of sides the question, "Resolved, That the controversy between the United States and England on free passage through the Panama Canal for American ships carrying coastwise trade should be submitted to arbitration." At a try-out debate held on February 14 the Columbian Society selected a team for the debate, the same question as the society debate being under discussion. The affirmative was upheld by Messrs. Cornell, Cobb and Seltzer, and the negative by Messrs. Haycroft, Shaw and Brooks. Considerable difficulty was experienced by the judges in coming to a decision because of the conflict with the Inter-collegiate debate, and one debater who had been chosen for the latter debate resigned his position on the society team but the final makeup of the team was Messrs. Cornell, Seltzer and Brooks, with Cobb an alternate.

Skull and Circle

SKULL and Circle held its usual monthly dinner and meeting on Monday, February 3d, at the New Fredonia. Practically the full membership was present.

At this meeting Prof. Leslie C. McNemar and Mr. George Phillips were initiated.

It is greatly regretted that Mr. George Deegan was compelled to leave college, and we hope to welcome him back next year.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY NOTES

ANOTHER well attended meeting of the Chemical Society was held on the evening of January 10, which was of the usual high degree of excellence characteristic of the society. The principal paper of the evening was read by Mr. Lewis T. Leonard, his subject being "The Bacteriological Chemistry of the Soil." Proceeding from the agricultural chemist's definition of soil as "that portion of the earth's crust in which plants may grow," he pointed out the great economic importance of this branch of the science of chemistry. Previous to the nineteenth century very little was known about the relation of the soil to plant life and the practical application of the sciences to agriculture was almost unheard of. It is in a great measure to the chemist's research and discoveries that scientific agriculture owes its existence. Liebig's work on organic chemistry attracted much attention, serving to stimulate research and study along practical lines, and later Pasteur's epoch-making discovery of fermentation bacteria opened a vast new field. Mr. Leonard referred to the work of the Bureau of Soils, Department of Agriculture, and exhibited several cultures of ammonification, nitrification, and other bacteria, explaining also a number of technical methods used in the examination and study of the constituents of soils and soil conditions.

Mr. Lodholz contributed a number of unusually interesting abstracts.

Mr. Pozen added the finishing touches to the meeting with a paper entitled "Science vs. Art." He did not attempt to define art in so many words, but compared and contrasted it with science, stating that "its composition cannot be expressed by a formula" in mathematical language, and that "there is no yardstick which can indicate the exact amount of art in any given production." He pointed out the reasons for the lack of appreciation of art, but was particular to add that he did not intend to "attempt the heroic task of reviving art." On the other hand, he quoted Mr. Herbert Paul's statement that "The scientific opinion seems to dominate everything. The world in the future is to be governed from the

Athletics Again

It is a source of great satisfaction once more to see the letters G. W. U. blooming, as it were, upon the pages of the daily newspapers, and it is up to the students of the University to keep it there. There seems to be no reason why we should not have a baseball team this year, and it is up to some one who has had experience along this line to get busy and start something. It is very possible that we have some good baseball material in the University. We found it in basket ball, why not in base ball? As an instance of this, word has just come to the Editor of a promising pitcher in the Pharmacy School.

We would suggest that the Athletic Council of the Athletic Association take this matter up immediately, and appoint a provisional manager. If it is found impracticable, it will have done no harm; if it is found that there is good material in the University, then a great deal more will have been accomplished to add to our already growing list of new achievements.

Dramatics

WE are glad to see that something is being done in the way of dramatics in the University. There still linger in our minds delightful reminiscences of the old Calcium Club, which was a brilliant dramatic, if not financial, success. The new movement should, of course, be modest at first, but if the proper energy is put into it, it will not be long before we have achieved a reputation, and with that all things are possible.

Co-Ed Athletics

ANOTHER source of interest for us is the new movement for athletics for the girls of the University. Every little bit helps, and the girls may contribute their share to the honor of the University just as well as anyone else. On the other hand, we feel sure that the girls will get a double enjoyment out of it, in the fact that they are enjoying themselves, and that they are competing under the name of the University. Here's luck and congratulations.

We have got to square up our basket ball account with Catholic University by taking that relay in the meet.

We all are going to be there. Are you-all?

That Sphinx stunt may be a joke, but its pretty nifty poetry, eh?

Schlosser, the guy that put all in the basket ball team.

Passing of C. P. S.

It is with regret that we note the necessity of the discontinuance of the College of Political Sciences as such. This institution has proved a valuable asset to the University. Not only has it sent more men to the Diplomatic Service since the revision of that branch of the Public Service than any other two colleges in the United States, but also it has served to advertise the George Washington University throughout the world. The action of the Board of Trustees was no doubt taken after careful consideration and was dictated by good policy. It is unfortunate, however, that a department which has been so creditable to the University should have died out as it has done. We hope that, as the Architectural Club, it will be revived at a later date when the financial condition of the University will warrant.

President to Address Navy League

THE President of the University has accepted an invitation to speak at 4.30 p. m. on February 27th, at the University of Chicago, at a meeting held under the auspices of the American Navy League. His subject will be a plea in behalf of a stronger navy for the United States. This is a burning and vital question at the present time, and as President Stockton is an authority on naval affairs, his remarks will be looked for with interest.

laboratory." The audience was held spell-bound during the delivery of his eloquent conclusion, of which the following is a verbatim report:

"The writer believes that in time the now prevalent scientific attitude toward art will disappear. Yet there arises before him a vision of the future of this terrestrial sphere, a vision tinged with sadness; a vision of the end when the last painting has been painted; when mortal man has dwindled into the dreamless dust; when all material substances have dissolved into ethereal nothing; when this mundane sphere has vanished into the depths of boundless space; when the clarion call of Gabriel's bugle resounds on high; we gaze into the distant depths and far off on a filmy cloud a mass of vibrating atoms which once constituted the frame of a pseudo-scientist seems to send forth periodic successions of sound waves which, impinging on the ear, seem to shriek in stentorian tones: 'Down with Art, Long live Science!'"

The banquet committee reported on the progress of arrangements for the annual banquet to be held at the Ebbitt, February 21, which promises to eclipse those held in previous years.

The Chemical Society held its February meeting Friday evening, February 14. Mr. Luckings read an interesting and instructive paper on "Yeast and its Manufacture." Proceeding from a brief technical description of several species of yeast cells, he outlined the methods pursued in the commercial preparation of the yeast used by bakers, brewers and distillers, and explained the chemical phenomena of fermentation. He also told about an exhibition at the Corby plant where a small toy slide-valve engine was made to run on the carbon dioxide gas evolved by the fermentation of yeast.

Mr. Taylor spoke on the subject of "Dips" and by way of explanation of the meaning of the term, stated that they are not the kind they have over at St. Elizabeth's and not those worn as headgear, nor even the variety in use at Glen Echo. He explained the purpose of dips used for the immersion of sheep and cattle infected with certain varieties of disease-breeding mites. He exhibited several illustrations and bulletins describing the pests and the effects of the dips upon them, passing around several samples of vile-smelling dips for the olfactory enjoyment of the members, which very forcibly called to mind the first paper read before the Society on "Petroleum."

The Sphinx

WHAT is the Sphinx, do you ask me,
That everyone's talking about?
Well the Sphinx, you must know,
is a secret
That it is for you to find out.

You may be quite sure you have guessed it.
You don't know, though you may think you do.
The old Sphinx of the Nile was a mystery,
So is ours of G. W. U.

Are we Seniors, or Juniors, or Sophomores,
Or ignorant Freshmen as well?
Just now we are keeping our secret.
But sometime, perhaps, we will tell.

Can its members be men or fair-co-eds?
Are its officers many or few?
The Sphinx, I have said, is a secret,
Though some day, perhaps, we'll tell you.

Do we meet? Why of course we hold meetings.
Have held them for six weeks or so,
Yet the Sphinx still remaineth a secret
That only its members may know.

You may guess till your wise heads are weary,
But still all your guesses are wrong;
For the Sphinx is—well, that is our secret
That all of you'll know before long.

Class Presidents Meet

The Class Presidents' Association held a meeting on Saturday, February 8th.

The presidents were addressed at this time by representatives from the committee having in charge the collegiate section of the inaugural parade. They explained how the colleges of the country generally were taking up the movement, and how it was particularly desirable that the colleges of the city join in enthusiastically. They stated the condition under which a delegation must march in the parade, and described the uniform which they must wear.

No action was at this time taken. It developed that not all of the presidents were enthusiastically in favor of the proposition for several reasons, and it was felt necessary that they get in touch with the members of their respective classes.

A motion was passed to petition the officers of the University for a college holiday on Monday, March 3d, in view of the woman suffrage parade, and the fact that there would be only one intervening day between Sunday and March 4th.

The election of the Senior Class marshals was postponed because of the meagre attendance of presidents from outside of the Department of Arts and Sciences.

She—"There's no use in talking, it's the small things that annoy one most."

He—"Yes. Even a little mosquito bores me frightfully."

"Do you know the nature of an oath, my boy," asked the judge.
"I ought to, sir," replied the boy.
"I was caddy at your golf club one season."—Yonkers Statesman.

LAW DEPARTMENT NOTES

THE results of the second terms registration are gratifying indeed. Not only has there been a substantial increase in the enrollment but also there has been a decided increase in the number of men devoting their entire time to the work of the University. The morning section of the Freshman Class for instance has been increased by thirteen members, despite the fact that the high standard of the University requirements has caused some of the men to drop out.

That the early morning classes are far from proving unpopular is attested to by the fact that there has been a considerable increase in the number of men attending at the earliest hour. These facts show progress in the right direction. Like many other day law schools of the country, the George Washington University Department of Law has had enrolled many students employed in various occupations in addition to their law work. The latest registration figures show that the number of men devoting their entire time to their studies in the University is increasing much more rapidly than the number of those who are devoting only a part of their time to those pursuits.

It is planned to have a smoker for the members of the Freshman Class of the Department of Law on next Friday night. The place has not as yet been definitely decided upon. There will be present in addition to the members of the class, many of the faculty, who will be called upon for brief addresses. Good cheer will flow. Come and get in the current of it.

Please stop asking the professors when the marks will be out. It is a proof of the fact that your papers are receiving careful consideration that the delay is so great. However, although we may cease asking, we are none the less anxious to know what has happened to us.

Wilson is a lucky name this year. "Preacher" Wilson of the '15 class has gotten two A's.

Professor Jones put the "c" in success, perhaps, but not the "a" in average.

Plans are on foot to hold a banquet for all students and graduates of the Department of Law of the George Washington University now in the District of Columbia and the neighboring country. The object of the committee in arranging for the affair is to bring about a closer union between the faculty, the students and the alumni of the institution. The matter has not yet been definitely decided. Present indications point, however, to the success of the scheme. Let us hope that it goes through. In the first place it will be an advertisement for the University and more important than that it will be a step in the direction of a strong alumni association, an organization which can do much to advance the interests of the young lawyer.

ENGINEERING NOTES

AN Eastern paper noting that a Cherry Tree is advertised for three dollars wants to know if the HATCHET will be thrown in.

A Chemical Society in Washington, has as its President, a Lepper, while a Munroe is honorary President. It seems hardly probable that the Monroe Doctrine will ever have to be invoked to keep foreigners from encroaching on this Chemical Lepper domain.—The Pest News.

Dean Hodgkins in a recent lecture told the members of the physics class to hold hands—there are no girls in the class—that he might make a demonstration in electricity. Murray (Tom) was made the star performer, and after a sufficient amount of electricity had been generated to light a Bunson burner the Dean announced: "Now, gentlemen, you see that Mr. Murray's capacity for electricity is great."

"The mind is no more nourished by memorizing words alone than the body is nourished by chewing a bill of fare."—University Hatchet.

Well, inasmuch as any ordinary bill of fare would have a good many p's in it, we do not see why considerable nutrition could not be obtained by chewing it.—The Daily Digest.

On last Thursday Harsch came to calculus class on time. With this innovation to his credit, the class hopes that he will repeat this unusual performance again in the near future, if his late hours of study will permit.

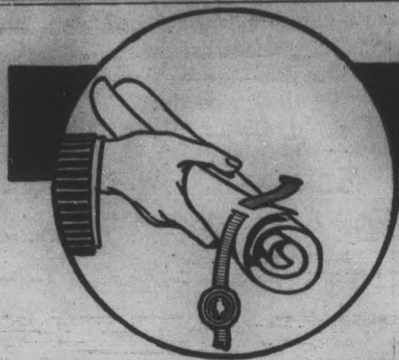

Nickles has been appointed to a position in the Agricultural Department, which assignment brings a moneyed addition to that Bureau as well as a mental one—the latter much greater than the former.

The manager of the Young Women's Athletic Club of G. W. U., recently organized, should bear in mind that the eyes of the world are on the Wilsons now.

MEDICAL NOTES

WITH a dermatology examination due on the eighteenth instant, and an obstetrical examination due on the first proximo the correspondent from the Medical Department finds that the classes are so much occupied with lectures and books that there is a relative scarcity of notes. Lott's ability as a dog catcher, however, and Ryan's hitherto unsuspected "class" as a fusser, provide matter of general interest and amusement.

Owing to the pressure of work in the Senior Class, J. D. Stout has been obliged to give up the book store. Mr. J. E. Folsom has taken charge of the store and it is hoped that the support of the students will be given him in rendering this most useful adjunct to the Medical Department as much a success as it has been under the management of Mr. Stout.

It looks as though the Medical Department would be the first to have its contributions in to the Cherry Tree.

One of the young ladies here thought the following lines would be appropriate in view of the fact that so many of the Seniors have been assigned to hospital duty:

"A green little student in a green little way
Some medicines mixed for a patient one day
Now the little green grasses tenderly wave,
O'er the green student's patient's green little grave."

On February 26th, Dr. Howard J. Kelley, of the Johns Hopkins University, will lecture at the First Congregational Church at 8 o'clock. His subject will be: "The Church and the Public at Large in Social Service."

The damage done to the Medical School by the fire of February 9th has been estimated at $3,600. The injury to the microtome and fifty-seven microscopes, principally in the melting apart of the lenses, accounts for over half this amount. Fortunately, the property was all fully insured, and except for personal losses of the students and the delay in class work, the University undergoes no serious misfortune.

The Medical Department faculty, with the approval of the President of the University, has decided to undertake the periodical publication of The Alumni Register.

In this it is proposed to present the records, so far as obtainable, of faculty and graduates since the establishment of the Medical School in 1826.

PHARMACY NOTES

STEPS which have recently been taken for a banquet which will bring together all the members of the Pharmacy School seem at present to promise success. All of the classes seem to have taken up the idea, and the outlook is very bright. Under the present arrangement of work the classes of the Pharmacy School have no work together, so that they have but little in common. It is to bring them together that the banquet is planned.

It is the present intention to hold the banquet in May immediately after the examinations.

It is the thought of the leaders in this movement that the work of the school can be greatly aided if the members know each other better.

The Freshman Class is finding difficulty in obtaining a successor to Mr. Lawson, President of the class, who has left school. The fair Vice President, Miss Evans, declined the office. Mr. Kerfoot was then elected, but for some reason which he declined to elucidate, resigned. Accordingly the election will again be held at the next meeting.

Mr. Stevens of the Junior Class recently delivered two of his justly famed colloquys to the Freshmen anent the proposed banquet. The Freshmen are anxious to meet the other members of the School and are enthusiastically in favor of the banquet. Mr. H. R. Kenner was elected as the Freshman representative to confer with the other classes.

At the last meeting of the local branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association, Mr. V. K. Chesnut presented a paper showing how refuse matter might be separated from siftings by subjecting them to a strong fan-mill. A higher grade and purer product is thus withdrawn, leaving a residue of large quantities of sand and other refuse matter. This will be very useful in the higher purification of licorice powder and other compounds.

Mr L F Kuebler presented a valuable paper showing the deficiency in quality of Tr. Iodine, expressing a strong desire to obviate this tendency toward varying strengths and to afford the consumer a uniform product.

"Lizz" Furburshaw may be expected to do better work after his matrimonial affairs have been completed.

The young ladies of the Freshman Class are striving hard to convert the opposite sex to staunch suffragists. Progress thus far, however, seems slow.

It is rumored that the Freshman Class contains a budding Walter Johnson. We expect to hear more from him if the University has a base ball team this year.

FRESHMAN COLLEGE NOTES

THE Executive Committee has decided to pay the costs incident to repainting the spots on the walls of the College resulting from the over-dosage of Le Page's glue applied to posters.

All Freshmen interested in duck-pins and who desire to make the Freshman team will meet at the Y. M. C. A. allies daily at 12.30. Practice will continue daily for about two weeks, after which the team will be chosen. Games will be had with the Engineering and Chemical and Architectural clubs. See "Pete" Chamberlain for particulars.

"Johnny" Jeffries attended Vanderbilt last year.

"Bob" Townsend attended Dartmouth the first semester, but is with us for the rest of the year.

Miss Gershanick is a staunch advocate of equal suffrage and socialism.

Agnes Trowbridge is the teacher of a Sunday school class.

Relay Team Defeats M. A. C. in Good Time

THE George Washington relay team won easily from the Maryland Agricultural College at the Johns Hopkins Meet last Saturday in the good time of 3:45 4-5 minutes. This time was only six seconds short of the fastest made in the meet, which was run by Johns Hopkins on their own floor.

M. A. C. started their fastest man first, and he handed over a lead of four yards over Captain Hamlin. Smith of G. W. U. easily overtook Morris of M. A. C., and Valaer of G. W. U. gained still further on Pennington of M. A. C. The last lap, between Tibbetts of G. W. U. and Ruff of M. A. C. was about an even thing, and Tibbetts crossed the line by a good margin.

Hamlin and Valaer will be remembered as having been on the regular team last year, while Smith also ran last year against Western Maryland, making a good showing. Tibbetts is a Central High School boy. He ran second in the scholastic quarter-mile at the Johns Hopkins games last year. In addition to the first team, George Washington has a capable fifth man in Mayfield, who was the star member of the Western High School for last season.

The good times which the George Washington quartet made in the meet last Saturday augurs well for the race with Catholic University tomorrow night. We should have an excellent chance to pull it in, and so get one leg on the cup which has been offered by the alumni associations.

Teachers College Notes

The teachers of Washington and college students preparing to do secondary or departmental work in which specialists are required owe a debt of gratitude to the men who have worked untiringly to make Teachers College a success and to place and keep it on a par with other large institutions of its kind in the United States. The College has met a great need in the city of Washington and has already, in the few years of its existence, raised the standard of teaching in the National Capital.

Dean Ruediger has been invited to give two courses in Education at the University of West Virginia, at Morgantown, during the summer session. He was in charge of the same work last summer for a part of the session.

"Don" McKnew is our Class(y) Beau Brummel. (See him).

How about Freshman athletics? We think there is enough material for a good baseball team.

Ramsay deserves credit for his efforts with the Glee Club and in getting up the Inaugural Marching Club.

Henry Veazie is a graduate of Peabody Institute. He contemplates going to Oxford next year.

We are glad to see that the Freshmen are taking an interest in the new Dramatic Club. Those who have not yet joined are requested to come to the next meeting. There will be work for all who enroll.

M. R. D. Tibbetts attended Dartmouth the first semester.

George M. McCloud comes from Bates College.

authority on political science of national reputation. He was succeeded, when he resigned to go to the University of Wisconsin, by Dr. Henry Parker Willis, who stands with the leaders as an economist and publicist. Under his vigorous administration the influence of the College grew and expanded steadily. During the past year, in the absence of Dean Willis, the position has been ably administered by Dr. Charles William August Veditz. Announcement has not yet been made of any changes in the Faculty.
